Informational Brochure for Parking Codes in Residence Districts

In order to improve the quality of life in neighborhoods and enhance enforcement efforts, the Norfolk City Council voted on June 5, 2001 to move motor vehicle related violations from the Zoning Ordinance and place them in the Norfolk City Code. While substantive provisions of these codes have not been changed (except as noted herein), the method of enforcement will be by the way of parking tickets, which can be issued by all sworn special police, fire marshals, or law enforcement officers.

These sections do not in any manner authorize the storage of junked or "inoperable" vehicles in any area in violation of City Code Section 29-58.
